Having heard a great deal of favorable comment upon the many good qualities of the Chicago Edwrrds Oil burner. and seeing the crowds who daily visit their sales room, 117 North Fifteenth street, a call was made for a little personal investigation- The busy proprietor, Mr. John Linderholm, paused a few moments and explained good naturedly the merits of this great friend of the people. He said that "the Edwards burner is a fuel saving device which is fast taking the place of gasoline, wood and coal. It will burn in any stove at a cost of from 11 to 2 cents per hour. do not sell patent rights, nor anything of the kind. We simply protect dealers by allowing one firm in each county to handle our goods, they paying us for the burners, tanks and oil. We ask no bonus and we see that they take only what they pay for and can sell. Another item which you should not overlook is the price at which we can sell oil. We expect to furnish it at Sc to 10c per gallon." After showing a great number of unsolicited testimonials the manager resumed his work. To those who have not seen the Edwards burner work a visit to their storeroom will be a revelation. It works equally well in any stove, and from all sides comes words of the highest praise. 'he Chicago Edwards burner is a mag nificent success-not a single failure It is clean, economical and effective, and entirely under the control of the operator. Your tank of oil can be placed in the cellar out of the way.

There is absolutely no danger of ex plosion or accident. It is 50 per cent cheaper than coal. Besides its use as a heater and for cullinary purposes it has no equal as a fuel for mills, factories, etc. In short it is as practicable as a fuel as coal itself. John Linderholm, the manager for Nebraska, is well known as a man of means, integrity and high honor. His word can be relied upon. Wilson's Card Answered.

St. Paul., Minn., Oct. 4. Editor Sporting Life: In the Sporting Life of October 3 I notice a communication from George A. Wilson in which he claims he was unjustly used by me. In answer I wish to say that Wilson was given every chance to do the correct thing, but instead of listening to the advice of true friends, he took the advice of people who, when he was in trouble, did not offer to help him, but left it for his fellow players to do. In regard to his statement that other members of the club were equally as guilty as he and were not fined at all, I wish to state that no member of the Omaha wish to state that no homoer of the Omana club escaped without a fine where liquor unfitted their from bail playing. Before leaving Omaha Wilson admitted to myself and several members of the club that he deserved the punishment he had received. Wilson's communication does me a great in-justice and I am forced to answer. Very and a gentleman well known in Omaha, has just issued an elaborate treatese on wild fowl shooting, and field sports generally. It is a handsome volume of 500 pages, and contains an almost limitless fund of information on the sport above alluded to. It is work that can only meet with the earnest support of all lovers of the dog and gun, as it is reptete with sound advice and valuable instruction related in an anecdotal way that renders it particularly attractive. His reminiscences of mallards, goose and snipe shooting are bright and sparkling, and he fairly leads the reader along with him through marsh and burs and thicket, on the streams and among the lakes. The book has been thoroughly prepared and should be in every sportsman's library.
